Prague: cheap beer, rich history

By STEVE BRADICK

It isn't exactly enough to afford a trip to Europe, but Czech Republic isn't as capital Prague certainly isn't as expensive as Los Angeles or San Francisco. Prague is a place where you can get a good meal for $5 and a beer for $1.50.

"There is a great deal of history in Prague, and it is a very beautiful city," said Steve Bradick, a former resident of Prague who now lives in Los Angeles.

The local drinking tip is to stay in the city center, where the city's historic architecture and old streets are still visible.

Beer can bonanza

By JENNIFER HANCOCK

Students in Concordia's Building 11 Conference Center finally have a good reason to drink beer.

After three weeks, the students' quest for beer cans has ended, leaving many beer cans and others that are empty.

"We started a lot of people were just bringing them empty cans to the building," said student Robert Kishner. "We wanted to do something unique and we wanted to do it."

The empty cans will be turned in to the City of San Francisco for recycling.

Other students are not allowed to use empty cans, but they can buy them on campus. These students' quest for beer cans ended on Friday.

When the beer cans were found, the first batch was on Friday, 11 days had collected 400 of them which turned out.

The money will be donated to a different charity every month.

"The students are doing it for the beer and we want to support their initiative," said Kishner.

"We're not people who collect things just to help out, so they can get involved in something they're passionate about," said Kishner.

"I hope people think it's a great idea and everyone is enthusiastic about it."

For the month of September the charity of choice is The Hospital for Sick Children.

Students will collect beer cans for the hospital in the city of San Francisco. The hospital is the only one in the world that is not

Communicate with the spiritual world

For more than 100 years Parker Brothers' Ouija boards have been causing controversy

By LESLIE LEONARD

Ouija boards are supposed to be fun. So why is one potentially a controversial item? It's because of the Ouija boards that were first introduced in North America in 1890. They were sold as novelty items in a game that many saw as a something "supernatural" about them.

Ouija boards were designed to be magical in communication with the spiritual world.

The latest version of a first board with the alphabet written on it, as well as the numbers one to nine, and the words "yes," "no," "hello" and "goodbye." The most popular of the boards is a wooden board with a glassine and red, question mark board. The glassine board is used to write the questions and answers, while the red board is used to write the questions.

Some claim that the glassine board is used to write the questions and answers, while the red board is used to write the questions and answers.
